But he complained that Dulles "did not come up with a constructive alternative" to the Soviet plan for confederation of East and West Germany by mutual agreement, before or after a peace treaty. Quizzed By Newsmen

Washington speculation had been that Dulles' statement, at a news conference Tuesday, was a hint at a shift in the U.S. line aimed to provoke Mikoyan's interest and a change in the Soviet line.

The short, mustached Soviet leader answered questions for 40 minutes from among 290 representatives of press, radio and television on his first visit to U.N. headquarters.

Mikoyan was to leave New York for Washington by train late Thursday night and he will see President Eisenhower Saturday.

At the news conference, he said the Soviets "do not want two powers to solve issues that affect other powers, nor do we want to divide the Americans from their Defiant Bama allies . . . However, this does not exclude the leaders of two states or of three states from discussing Judge Is Cited questions of interest."

American Criticism Angers Castro

Rebel leader Fidel Castro blasts American criticism of his revolutionary government's execution of war criminals. He was speaking at a Rotary luncheon yesterday at the Nacional Hotel in Havana. NEW YORK (UPI) - Twenty million members of eight Baptist bodies have joined in their first cooperative effort in nearly 100 years for a five-year warm-up for what may turn out to be the greatest single evangelistic effort in history.

The Baptist Jubilee Advance years in the planning, will last until 1964, when the 150th anniversary of the organization of Baptists in North America will be celebrated for an entire year.

The "advance" will reach into every one of the 70,000 Baptist churches in the United States and Canada. It will extend to colleges and universities and even enter individual homes.

Primary target of the great Baptist crusade will be the estimated 60 million unchurched Americans. But Baptist leaders also hope that the religious dedication of those already on church rolls will be deepened and broadened by the extensive program.

Five Annual Phases

The Baptist Jubilee Advance timetable calls for five annual phases, the first one having begun Jan. 1, as follows:

1959-Evangelism through cooperative witness. 1960-Evangelism through Bible teaching and training. 1961-Evangelism through stewardship and enlistment.

1962 - Evangelism through church extension.

1963 - Evangelism through world missions. Then, in 1964, comes the climax to five years of hard work-the third jubilee convention, which church officials hope will bring together the largest number of Christians ever to sit under the same roof.

Groups involved in this vast effort are the American Baptist Convention, the Baptist Federation of Canada, the Baptist General Conference of America, the National Baptist Convention of America, the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc., the North American Baptist General Conference, the Southern Baptist Convention and ex officio for Baptist World Alliance.

The "advance" began with working seminars for ministers in key cities across the country, to prepare them for the issues they will discuss for the next five

The features of the first year will include a mission to ministers, helping them to prepare to spread the word; six-week study and training schools of evangelism to prepare workers for the mass effort; a mission to the academic community and a television series aimed at members of all religious faiths.

Baptist leaders said one of the two great efforts of 1959 would be the evangelistic activites on the campuses of the nation's colleges be made to reach every Baptist student and every student who has no religious affiliation.

The other major activity will be "televangelism 1959." the first nationwide spiritual revival ever based on a combination of television drama and the personal visitation of millions.

Televise Plays

A series of 13 Sunday afternoon TV dramas began Jan. 4, titled "This is the Answer." The plays deal with juvenile delinquency, alcoholism, infidelity, hypocrisy greed, revenge, fear of death and other basis problems of men.

Groups have been organized to meet at different homes each Sunday to pray, watch the program and then have an informal discussion period dealing with the theme of the play.

All of these activities, and many more, were carefully mapped out to try to create a heightened sense of responsibility for carrying out the work of the church, a Baptist spokesman said.

It was made clear, however, that the great effort in no way involved a movement toward un-

The lot was given to the Pontiff by Don Houston and other Catholic cattlemen around Dunlap. Iowa, and the purpose is to improve the standard of Italian cattle by introducing this strain there.

The logistics involved were impressive. The cattle were moved by truck from Dunlap by Railway Express Agency to Idlewild

Railway Express put the herd in the ASPCA shelter there, where it was fed, watered and exercised. Then all 9,000 pounds of it was piped aboard a KLM cargo plane and arrived in Italy without incident. Iowa's first and happiest bridgehead on the Vatican farm in Ponte Galeria, near the summer residence of the Pope in Castel Gandolfo was secured.

With all the big U.S. airlines now back at work, after harrowing labor troubles, one's mind somehow goes back to a man who could not have understood such stresses any more than he could condone the use of the airplane for war purposes. I mean Orville Wright.

To his end, the first man ever to fly a heavier-than-air vehicle spelled it "aeroplane." The last letter in his collected Papers betokens the withdrawn manner of a man who, with his brother, changed the history of both warfare and transportation. It is in Marvin W. McFarland's wonderful collection (McGraw-Hill):

"I have a 10-horsepower General Electric motor that I would like to sell," Wright wrote to GE from Dayton on January 24, 1948. "This motor was purchased in 1917 for use in my laboratory on a wind tunnel. I would estimate it had about 200 hours of running ... would you be interested in purchasing it or do you know of an interested purchaser?"

To paraphrase Fred Allen, the only thing you can turn on these days around the house without getting Dr. Fidel Castro is a spigot

The good doctor, whose idealistic phrases have been drowned out lately by the rattle of his firing squads, comes and goes and then comes again. We wish him well and hope he stops shooting people who weren't on his side. We also hope he permits the existence of at least one other ac-

Back In Jail

LONDON (UPI) - "Sixty-sock" Smith was back in jail Thursday, his unusual escape to freedom foiled by a guard dog. Brian Smith, 24, started saving socks as soon as he began his five - year terms at Wormwood Scrubs Prison for robbery. His fellow prisoners thought he was crazy to go to so much trouble to hide the socks from the guards. One night recently he tied 60 socks together and climbed over the prison wall with the stout woolen rope. Once free, however, he turned again to robbery and was nabbed by a sheep dog guarding a store. Wednesday, Smith was sentenced to three more years in jail.

Avert Fire Disaster

MODENA, Italy (UPI)-School authorities credited quick work by police and firemen Thursday for the rescue of 600 children from a school fire similar to the recent one in Chicago. The fire broke out in the heating system and rapidly blocked the exits. Police fought the flames with extinguishers pending the arrival of the fire brigade, and then helped the firemen save all the children and teachers with ladders extended to the windows.

Eyewitness Describes Execution Of 71 Cubans

EDITOR'S NOTE: Luis de Cabo Garcia, 25, a mechanic for Autobuses Modelo a Santiago, a bus company in the Cuban provincial capital of Santiago de Cuba, was one of the few civilians who witnessed the wholesale execution Monday of 71 "war criminals" by Fidel Castro's rebels. Secretary of State John Foster Tuesday with the statement that > Certainly there are. But none to which both sides will agree. If the Western Powers come up with new proposals it may appear that hey are being reasonable. But it won't make any change in the fundamental situation. Here's why, and why the Communists want to keep tension eased, but not too much:

1. The Communists want and expect to take over the world. 2. They count on help from failure of the capitalist system-permanent depression. 3. They want to keep a sufficient tension so the capitalist nations will both waste their resources on armament, so contributing to economic collapse, and eventually use the arms among themselves in suicidal climax to economic competition

4. They don't want the tension to get to the point where the West will unify in an attempt to wipe out the Soviet Union and international communism once and for

5. They also wish to appear reasonable before the neutrals, at the same time trying to convince them that the capitalist West is marching to its own doom while communism offers them the material progress they so desire.

Always in the background, of course, is the very real fear on both sides that when one appears to be on the verge of winning the cold war, the other will use its arms in one last violent and desperate effort to turn the tide.

That time of crisis may be a long time off. Dulles said Wednesday it might be generations. All that time the Reds can be expected to create tensions to keep the West under strain, then ease them off to prevent an outbreak. For the Reds believe that time is on their side. They are not interested in what the rest of the world calls peace.

Rails Cleared After Wreck

Wreckage of 25 cars of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train that derailed east of Ohiopyle Tuesday afternoon was cleared by the Pittsburgh and Cumberland Division crews.

Traffic was blocked until midnight and trains were re-routed over the Western Maryland Rail-

Eastbound B&O passengers and freights entered the Western Maryland at Ohiopyle and were delivered back at City Junction at the north end of Cumberland. Westbound trains left the B&O tracks at Confluence and returned at Ohiopyle. A B&O spokesman said that traffic was restored to normal and both tracks are being used. An estimated 300 to 400 feet of track was torn up during the derailment. Some track work remains to be done.

The train was en route from Cumberland to Connellsville when the 30th car left the rails. The cause of the derailment has not been determined.

Western Maryland officials from Cumberland assisting in the re-routing were W. H. Rayburn, Western Division trainmaster: Harry Dixon, road foreman of engines, and John Hamburg, as-

Will We Win Or Lose Trade War?

During and since World War II the United States was a creditor nation in that it sold more goods and services abroad than it purchased. During the past year it became a debtor nation because it made payments for receipt of goods in excess of U.S. exports.

Secretary Lewis L. Strauss of the U. S. Department of Commerce expresses concern about this turn. He speaks of it as "a weakening of our position" in the world.

Evidence continues to accumulate of America's out-priced position in world trade. Japan is now buying Australian coal. U. S. coal producers had to raise their prices following another wage agreement with John L. Lewis.

The American Iron and Steel Institute says U. S. steel exports are declining and imports rising. Several countries are increasing steel capacity. Operating on a considerably lower wage scale, they can go after world markets and even sell steel in the United States below the domestic price.

Seeking bids on natural uranium, the atomic energy agency found the U.S. bid to be $54.34 per kilogram against a Belgian bid of $34. Expansion of automobile industries abroad, and the increasing imports of lower priced cars to the United States, threaten one of the biggest and most basic industries of the nation.

Competition as yet is mostly from the free nations. Russia and China are making their brags about flooding the world with goods priced far below the U. S. level, and Mikoyan has said repeatedly on his tour of the U.S. that the U.S.S.R. certainly is interested in trade with the

The Police State

When the 300 or so lawyers in Chicago got all unending, indefatigable hard excited and gave Anastas Mikoyan a stand-up cheer work, Lyndon Johnson got the the Armenian butcher of Budapest must have had a silent belly-laugh all on his own, because he, as much as Khrushchev or Serov, represents the police state. His entire career has been one of getting rid of successful friends as well as dangerous enemies.

Of course, these Chicago lawyers are not expected to know much about Russia and its satellites and their objection to the term, police state, may have some local meaning with which we who do not live in Chicago may have no familiarity. Apparently, they accept Adlai Stevenson as an expert on Russia, he having taken a trip there, during which he made an impres-

For those Chicago lawyers, and others, who would really like to know what they are applauding, I recommend a book. It is entitled "The Naked Communist" and was written by W. Cleon Skousen, who was in the FBI and who is now at the head of the police of Salt Lake City. The book is published by The Ensign Publishing Company, Salt Lake City, Utah. Apart from his FBI experience. Skousen taught at Brigham Young

This book is unusual in that it deals with the Marxist movement as a fact, a psychological, economic and historic fact that requires analysis and understanding. Its first problem is a moral one. It is not without significance that Stalin and Mikoyan both studied for the priesthood. In fact, all early Marxists were preoccupied with the problem of God and apparently Mikoyan assumed that in Chicago they understood that the philosophy of Marxism was atheistic and that one of the most serious difficulties the Marxist faced was to maintain a system of morals without a power outside of man that made for Skousen, more correctly than most American writers, begins his study where he should, namely with the Marxist struggle against God. He says:

Homo-Marxian was found to behave exactly like the graduate creature from the jungle which he believes himself to be. He regards all others with fearful suspicion and responds to each problem as though his very existence were at stake. Although he demands the right to rule humanity, he disdainfully rejects the most basic lessons learned during thousands of years of human experience .

The book contains an excellent study of the founders of Bolshevism, Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels. Skousen quotes Bakunin's opinion of Marx which is very interesting indeed:

"Marx loved his own person much more than he loved his friends and apostles, and no friendship could hold water against the slightest wound to his vanity. . . . Marx will never forgive a slight to his person. You must worship him, make an idol of him, if he is to love you in return; you must at least fear him if he is to tolerate you . . . one may say that in the circle of Marx's intimates there is very little brotherly frankness, but a great deal of machination and diplomacy. There is a sort of tacit struggle, and a compromise between the self-loves of the various persons concerned: and where vanity is at work there is no longer place for brotherly feeling. Every one is on his guard, is afraid of being sacrificed, of being

I recommend this book as rewarding to those who really wish to know what they are talking about. Certainly no one who read this book could jump up and applaud a mere statement that the police state has been abolished in Soviet Russia; he would know that Communism could not survive in any country except as a police state. It could not survive for the very reason that Mikovan gave, namely, that it is necessary to have high moral standards and high moral standards are impossible without a conscience which is not a psychiatric mechanism but an instrument of man's relationship to his traditional concept of his God and the automatic responses that arise therefrom.

Perhaps Stalin had to commit so many murders to prove that he had no conscience. Mikovan, the Armenian theological student who became a bank robber before he developed into a Communist trader, might some day try to relate conscience to his own conduct, particularly in Hungary.

'C'mon - Giddap!'

Nixon Changes Tune On Informing American People Of Missile Lag

WASHINGTON - Vice President Nixon has done a strange right-about-face on the question of informing the American public about our 1ag behind Russia in missiles and satellites.

One year ago he was the man who urged Eisenhower to give the American people the facts, to deliver a Churchillian type of speech rousing the public to greater effort in the cold war. Nixon urged what was called "Operation Candor." Now he has gone all-out for "Operation Soothing Syrup."

Fearful that the satellite-missile issue may provide political thrust for the Democrats in 1960, Nixon has joined the White House in playing down Russia's lead in outer space. Democratic charges that the United States is lagging in the space race, he fears, could become a damaging political issue.

To his fellow policymakers, therefore, he is crying for a speedup. But to newsmen he has been whispering that the United States is really ahead.

However, here are the sobering facts which he himself has read in the intelligence warnings and which he cannot honestly

Intercontinental missiles-Russia tested her first ICBM 18 months ahead of the United States. By next Christmas Russia will have an estimated 300 ICBMs pointing at American cities from across the Arctic. Not until 1962 will the United States be able to launch a reson's victory. With a better plan of action, and without Johnson to lead the other camp, the liberals might have achieved a more drastic change in the Senate rules. The change that was finally made was very far from radical. But the fact remains that Lyndon Johnson was only fighting a rear guard action. His victory slowed down the retreat.

But the retreat will continue

The resigned expectation of turn salvo anywhere near this number. Even then, in 1962, we will have around 100 fewer ICBMs than Russia will have by the end of 1959.

Intermediate missiles-Russia had actually tested 1,800-mile missiles before the United States even started to build the 1,500mile Thors and Jupiters. Today Russia has an estimated 750 intermediate missiles ready to launch against our overseas bases. The United States has shipped only two dozen Thors to England, hopes to install some more in Italy, Turkey and Alaska.

Satellites and rockets - The Atlas, which the United States finally launched into orbit recently, weighs less than the total two-piece sputnik that the Russians slammed into orbit over a year ago. The recent Soviet moon rocket, which soared past the moon into orbit around the sun, weighs 3,245 pounds-over 300 times more than the American moon rocket which petered out before traveling one-third of the way to the moon. These are facts which Vice President Nixon definitely knows and which the American people are entitled to know, but which this week he indicated to the American people are not true.

Lyndon Hears Negro Bishops

To Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas there's a difference between Senate rules and human beings. Just before the debate on filibustering in which Lyndon carried the ball for those who want to protect the filibuster as a weapon against civil rights, he got a phone call from Aubrey Williams, a civil rights champion from Montgomery, Ala.

Williams was in Washington and had with him a group of Negro bishops. He did not tell Johnson, but the bishops had wanted to see Senators Douglas of Illinois and Humphrey of Minnesota, who were leading the fight against filibustering.

"They're on our side," said the Negro bishops, explaining why they wanted to see the two northern Senators.

However, Douglas and Humphrey didn't want to see them. They feared Sen. Jim Eastland of Mississippi would hear about it and claim on the Senate floor that they were taking orders from Negro lobbyists. When ever, Johnson replied:

"Come on over and bring anybody you want." "That will include a group of

Johnson was harassed and hurried with lining up votes for the filibuster fight, but he spent an hour with the Negro church-

Professor In Politics

Wyoming's freshman Sen. Dale McGee, a professor turned politician, had trouble finding a house in Washington that would fit his finances.

The real estate agency, learning he was a Senator, persisted in taking him through homes costing from $49,000 to $93,000. Finally McGee asked the salesman to show him something less

"First," explained the new Senator, "I am a Democrat, not a Republican. That lowers the price I can pay. Second, I have been a professor.

expensive.

With an understanding nod, the salesman took McGee to a modest home that an attorney was giving up because it was too small for his three children. The Senator found it roomy enough for his four children.

However, he didn't have a dime for down payment. The real estate agency had to wait until he could borrow the money. Although the salesman ended up with a smaller commission than he had expected from a Senator, he commented cheerfully: "It's nice to know that a man without a bank account can be elected to the United States Senate."

Moscow Is Mecca

It used to be that candidates for high office from big eastern cities went first to Dublin to help win the Irish vote, then to Rome to win the Italian vote, then to Jerusalem to win the Jewish vote. Pilgrimages to these three cities influenced votes back

But things have changed. Now you go to Moscow. Adlai Stevenson went to Moscow and interviewed Khrushchev. And after Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota interviewed Khrushchev his name leaped into the headlines as a major presidential candi-

So now Vice President Nixon is going to Moscow, proabbly this summer. The invitation was given him by Deputy Premier Mikoyan last week. Nixon has long been itching to visit Russia, but avoided giving a yes or no answer. However, he plans to go to West Germany and Poland this year and will unquestionably go on to Moscow as part of the trip.

Johnson had a right to be triumphant, too. The row about the Senate's rule, born of the cruel civil rights problem, could quite easily have got completely out of control. outset. He then kept it under control to the final vote. The Senate chamber contains four more or less openly avowed Presidential hopefuls. Vice President Richard Nixon on the Republican side, and Sens. John Kennedy of Massachusetts, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, and Stuart Symington, of Missouri, on the Democratic side. Nixon ruled against Johnson. The three Senators all voted against him. ("I'd get your vote if you weren't running so damn hard,' he told one of them with a broad grin; and he was quite right, too.) The unanimity of the Presidential hopefuls was proof enough that the political odds against Johnson were pretty heavy. The efficiency, and just possibly the toughness of the Johnson methods of beating the odds were revealed by some other peculiarities of the voting pattern. Somehow or other, for instance, he won the support of the new Senator from Indiana, Van Hartke, who has a huge bloc of Negro voters in his state. Again, the two new Alaska Senators, Gruening and Bartlett, gave their votes to Johnson, although their own entry into the Senate had long been delayed by Southern opposition to Alaskan statehood. In their usual way, the Senators of the liberal bloc also a continuing body. A vote against the continuity of the Senate is almost a vote against the Senate itself. Most Senators, whether liberal or conservative, would rather vote against Mother than

Sen. Humphrey, advocated a straight fight for a better rule on cloture. But Sens. Paul Douglas of Illinois and Jacob Javits of New York insisted that the non-continuity of the Senate was a matter of principle; and Douglas and Javits won the argument. Whenever any Congressional liberal takes an extreme stand, all the other liberats always feel compelled to cry, "You can't outliberal us." will retreat as little as possible and with great reluctance, but it will still retreat. One can offer this prediction with greater confidence because the new bill, if offered, seems likely to be moderate. Vice President Nixon would like a strong bill. Presidential Chief of Staff Wilton B. Persons would like no bill at all. Thus the chances are good for the compromise plan of Attorney General William Rogers. He is reported to want a bill that will merely give the Attorney General the power to take state officials into court when they have actively and positively denied the civil rights to any citizen. Both sides of the civil rights fight will be automatically outraged by such a bill, the South because it is a civil rights bill and the strong civil rights advocates because of the bill's moderation. But there is still a strong case for making great changes in a gradual manner.

The week in Miami is over, but the tan lingers on. . .

This was the first vacation with my two daughters, son-in-law, and two granddaughters. It was the greatest. It was, as Gayle says, dreamy. The weather was sunny and warm, the quarters were roomy and ideal, the natives were friendly, the scenery was beautiful, even the horses at Tropical Park ran the way I

The twins, of course, will not remember it. Robin and Pamela. at five months of age, saw more of Mrs. Coten, the baby sitter, than they did of us. We were always getting dressed to go somewhere, as I recall it. Dave and Adele Frechette - who are also grandparents of these twins -live in Miami so this was their big chance to see their son, their daughter-in-law, and the grandchildren. We visited their house on 183d Street and all of us went to the Americana Hotel for din-

What a gang. It looked like an old-fashioned Italian christening. We ate everything that three waiters could bring. Then we drove over to the Fontainbleau and it required 20 minutes to get our car back. Miami Beach is not for me. It is like Broadway in the days when George White's Scandals and Earl Carroll's Vanities were jazzing it up. Take the neons away and you're in a

A few of us went down to Leon and Eddie's to see Evelyn West, a healthy-looking girl who supports her poor old momma by taking her clothes off onstage. Hers, not momma's. She sat with us awhile and talked about the homey things.

At Tropical Park, I met Mrs. Frank Mackle Sr., whose three sons are my friends. She looked fetching in lavender with earrings to match, and she said that she had come to the track because her boys had a horse running in the first race. His name was Flameyed. She opened her purse and held up a $2 ticket. It showed that she had faith in her boys. The horse won, and Momma Mackle went home with about $3.50.

Tom Ferris and I sat studying the form charts as though we knew what we were doing. This must have been Be Kind to Jim Bishop Week because five of the eight horses we selected came home in front, winking toward me as they crossed the finish line.

At the hotel, there is a pitch and putt course. I did 18 holes in 70, which has never happened before and will never happen again. The ocean was a half block from the course. I struck a blue toe in it and the water exist.

was warm and calm. The big swimming pool was full of laughing, splashing children and the lady on the other end of the Room Service Phone turned out to be an old reader of mine. No matter what I asked for, she assured me that it would be right over. And it was.

It was an incredible week. . .

The Mackle boys (boys? You should live to be that old!) loaned us their Chris Craft and we went fishing out between Key Biscayne and Soldiers' Key. Dave got a bluefish and Charlie got a blue and a blue runner. The ocean was the color of jade and running to deep ground swells with a soupcon of whipped cream on top. The sea looked like a bowl of lime Jello. One afternoon I stopped in to the Miami Herald to see George Beebe and some of the men around the city room. My ladies went shopping in Burdine's store and they not only forgot where the car was parked, they couldn't find each other. All of us arrived back at the Key Biscayne in separate cabs, glaring.

In the evening, we had steaks at The Embers. These were so delicious that I said to heck with the diet and went off the deep end of a baked potato filled with chives and butter. My grandma used to say: "You might as well be hanged for a sheep as a lamb," so I tried the hot apple pie too. The hot apple pie also

Toward the end. I got on radio WMET with my old friend, Sam Gyson. We gabbec for over an hour. We talked about the old days when we were broke and Al Rylander was honest and we talked books and current controversies. Sam is the only radio gabber who makes his listeners do homework. After he is finished, they have to phone him to tell him what is right with the pro-

The next day we came home. On the train, Ginny said, musingly: "I had a dream last night about Jayne Mansfield." Her husband nodded his head: "That's funny," he said. "So did I."

It was a great vacation. . .

About Those Fantastic Cosmetic Claims By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The exaggerated claims for many cosmetics have disturbed many responsible persons and organizations. The Food and Drug administration (FDA) and the Federal Trade commission (FTC) are meeting the challenge within their legal limits to do so, and the cosmetic industry hopes the problem can be settled in a nongovernmental way. Manufacturers who make extravagant claims about new products usually are raking in the profits while the government develops the evidence necessary to reach a sound decision. By the time the claims are proved false o the public becomes aware of the deception and turns to other products, the company has made its pile and does not care.

Elroy Face, the little man who is known as the "boss" of the Pittsburgh Pirate bull pen, signed his 1959 contract Thursday for what the club described as a "well-deserved" increase in salary. He was the seventh Pirate to sign.

HOW WIDER GOAL POSTS WILL LOOK - Here's how the new 24-foot-wide goal posts will look, in comparison with the post long used at a width of 19 feet, two inches. The national college foothall rules committee has changed goal post width for the first time in history, in an effort to encourage field goal attempts. The 19-foot, two-inch posts are the inner, broken lines. (AP Photofax)

In Memoriam In memory of our beloved mother, Nora Agnes Fletcher who passed away Jan. 16th, 1958.

The blow was hard, the shock severe, We never thought her death so near. The blow was hard, the shock severe.
We never thought her death so near.
Only those who have lost can tell.
The pain of parting without farewell.
She little thought when leaving home.
That she would never return.
That she so soon in death would sleep.
That here so soon in death would sleep.
That leave us here to mourn. That she so soon in ueahi would had leave us here to mourn.
God knows how much we miss her,
Never shall her memory fade.
Loving thoughts shall ever wander,
To the spot where she is laid. Sadly missed by HER CHILDREN

No panic hardware on exit doors. (Panic bars unlock a door when pushed).

Inside stairway from boiler room to first floor landing should be eliminated and sealed due to possible spreading of fire from boiler room to first floor.

Location of chimney in center of school should be checked and tested for tightness of flue.

An additional hazard now existing in this school is that it is being used as a combination school and convent. These should be in separate buildings.

The age and construction of this dual type building is a contributing factor to the hazards which affect the extent of a fire after it has once started. This building with its present enrollment of 488 students, plus convent personnel, is "a definite life hazard"
